

This Was the Scene in United Nations Security Council Thursday as U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson spoke about current crisis in the Congo. Seated at the table are U Thant, left, acting secretary general, and Russia's Valerian Zorin. Behind them are Maj. Gen. Sean McKeown, left, commander of the U. N. Congo force, and Conor Cruise O'Brien, top U. N. representative in Katanga, both of whom arrived Thursday to report to the U. N. on the situation in the Congo.

NATO Must Have Nuclear Control, Adenauer Asserts

Strongest Possible Position Vital During Talks, He Says

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer says the North Atlantic Treaty Organization must be given authority to order retaliation with U.S. nuclear weapons assigned to its members — a power now held solely by President Kennedy.

Adenauer told a news conference Thursday the West must enter into any negotiations with the Soviet Union from the strongest of bargaining positions. That, he said, called for strengthening of NATO military forces to permit them to wage nuclear warfare without White House clearance.

"I base this on an expert opinion by Gen. (Adolph) Heusinger, who said that one hour may decide our fate and that the President may not be reachable to make a decision," Adenauer said.

Heusinger, former chief of staff of West German armed forces, became chairman of the permanent NATO military committee last April.

Under U. S. Control

At present, NATO has nuclear weapons on the European continent, but they are under exclusive U.S. control. Changes would be required in the U.S. Atomic Energy Act before the custody of the

Minuteman Is Launched From 90-Foot Silo

Sent Into Target Region in Atlantic 3,000 Miles Away

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — With a swirl of fire and smoke, an intercontinental-range Minuteman missile scored its first underground launching success today.

The rocket vaulted from a 90-foot silo and raced to a target area about 3,000 miles away.

The success, announced by the Air Force, advanced the day when hundreds of Minutemen will be planted in underground silos capable of surviving nuclear attack.

A rush of fire and smoke erupted from the steel and concrete hole as the missile's powerful engines ignited.

The 58-foot projectile cleared the pit in two seconds, quickly darted through the smoke clouds and pitched toward the southeast.

All Stages Function

The second and third stages fired as planned and propelled the nose cone into a broad bull's-eye area in the Atlantic. Pinpoint accuracy was not a goal on this first successful silo firing.

The good flight signals a stepup in the Minuteman test flight program, with several more firings scheduled before the end of the year.

The Air Force needed a successful flight to make up for time lost when a Minuteman exploded seconds after the missile's first silo launching on Aug. 30.

The August failure was traced to a spurious guidance system signal which ignited the second stage as the missile cleared the silo. The second stage is intended to fire about a minute after launching.

Analysis of data also showed the missile was affected slightly by noise ricocheting off the sides

Massacre of 13 Italian Airmen by Mutinous Units Arouses Growing Anger

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant today considered rushing more U.N. troops to the Congo to deal with the new crisis as anger mounted over the slaying of 13 Italian airmen by mutinous Congolese soldiers.

U Thant discussed the situation with Maj. Gen. Sean McKeown, commander of the U.N. Congo force, and Conor Cruise O'Brien, chief U.N. representative in Katanga, who were ordered home to brief him on the grave turn of events.

McKeown said on arrival Thursday the U.N. needs more men and equipment to deal with the mounting crisis. He added that those responsible for the slayings would have to be apprehended but that this would be difficult since Congolese officers have little control over their troops.

Force Cut Down

The U.N. Congo force once numbered more than 22,000 men but is down to 15,490 since the withdrawal of contingents from Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Morocco, Tunisia and the United Arab Republic. It is expected to lose the Nigerian contingent of 1,711 within a few weeks.

U Thant denounced the slaying of the 13 airmen as an outrageous crime and ordered the U.N. Congo command to make sure all responsible get the punishment they deserve.

The murder sent a wave of revulsion through U.N. headquarters as details were disclosed in a report from Sture Linner, chief U.N. officer in the Congo.

Beaten and Shot

Linner said the Italians were beaten and shot, then cut to pieces and parts of their dismembered bodies distributed to a crowd in the Kivu Province town of Kindu.

There were expressions of outrage from the United States, Britain, France and other members of the Security Council which met to discuss the mounting crisis in

Tax Compromise Outlook Brightens

Governor May Make Greater Concessions Than Indicated

MADISON — The outlook for Gov. Nelson's tax revision compromise bill improved slightly today, following the first detailed perusal of the measure by the Republicans who control the legislature and who sent the Democratic governor a sales tax that he vetoed two months ago.

There were these developments contributing to the belief that the Nelson plan for a combination of higher income taxes and a selected consumer purchase tax program may be enacted:

1. Emissaries of the Republican caucus, having met privately with Nelson, reported to the secret joint session of the Republican senators and assemblymen that the Democratic governor is willing to make more concessions to them than he has yet declared publicly.

2. Sen. W. A. Draheim of Neenah, who wants to revive the general sales tax and to challenge Nelson to veto it again, found little support for his viewpoint at the joint meeting of his party colleagues.

Consents to Changes

3. Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi of Eagle River, one of the seasoned politicians of the lower house, told reporters he is now reasonably sure that with the amendments Nelson has consented to accept, the revision plan can be approved in the assembly.

4. The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation, which has a strong influence upon rural Republican legislators, wrote each law-maker that the Nelson plan with some changes is a "conscionable" compromise, and that it should be accepted. The Federation was one of the principal forces in the earlier drive for a general sales tax.

The Legislature will be in recess next week for Thanksgiving, and the deer hunting season.

Reports leaking out of the joint GOP caucus suggested that the senate will be more reluctant to approve Nelson's bill, even with some amendments, than the assembly. Significantly, the emissaries who have worked privately

Group Opposes Public Funds for Bus Service For Parochial Pupils

MADISON (AP) — A high ranking group representing 14 Protestant denominations in Wisconsin on record Thursday against the Assembly proposal providing state finances for bus transportation for all grade school children in the state.

The board of directors of the Wisconsin Council of Churches said in a statement:

"We oppose on principle legislation which subsidizes at public expense advantage to one religious segment of our society at cost to another."

The statement referred to a bill which went to a legislative conference committee Thursday. Assemblymen have approved a version of the measure that would provide local options on school bus service. The Senate measure would make the service mandatory.

No Weakness During Talks On Cold War

President Says U. S. Won't Preach Either War or Surrender

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — President Kennedy says the United States must be willing to negotiate cold war issues from a position of strength. To preach either war or surrender, he says, does a disservice to the nation.

As the Western Allies, including West Germany, renew efforts to unify their stand toward the Soviet Union, Kennedy Thursday made clear these views:

To encourage "appeasement or war, suicide or surrender," will divide the nation, create uncertainty among allies and inspire doubt in the Communist bloc of the West's readiness to defend its rights.

Won't Yield on Freedom

"The United States cannot impose its will on others," he said. "There cannot be an American solution for every world problem."

The United States will never negotiate merely for the sake of negotiation, nor will it ever subject freedom to negotiation. But so long as vital interests and goals are clear, "we have nothing to fear from negotiations at the appropriate time and nothing to gain by refusing to play a part in them."

Talking out East-West disputes will succeed only if each side can find success in the result. In effect, neither side can expect total victory.

Although the French and others may see weakness in taking the initiative in bargaining with Moscow, "this nation cannot abdicate to its adversaries," the setting and conditions of negotiations.

Kennedy, accused by some of failing to marshal public support for Western aims, set forth these warnings and objectives at the outset of a western tour.

Dressed in an academic robe, he addressed 11,000 faculty members, students and guests at the University of Washington's 100th anniversary convocation.

Skipper of Lost Ketch Kills Self in Motel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Julian Harvey, captain of the ketch Blue Belle which sank in the Atlantic Sunday with the apparent loss of five lives, killed himself in a motel room here today.

Policeman B. I. Naylor, who knew Harvey personally, was called to the motel. He said the 45-year-old former Air Force officer slashed veins in his neck and left thigh with a razor blade.

cluding her parents and a brother, when a chartered ketch, the Blue Belle, went down in a sudden squall 50 miles northwest of Nassau, Bahamas.

But at 11:17 a.m. Thursday a message came from a merchant ship, the Captain Theo, saying a child had been picked up from a life raft. The skipper, named Couthodontis, requested medical advice from the Coast Guard.

The child was given a small amount of water and orange juice and was put to bed while a Coast Guard helicopter flew to meet the freighter 285 miles off Miami. The Captain Theo is en route to Texas ports.

The 'copter was unable to land on the freighter and lifted the child in a basket. She awoke briefly.

Dr. Franklyn Verdon said Terry Jo was suffering from exposure, loss of fluid, a heart beating too fast because of shock, and the threat of pneumonia.

The skipper of the Blue Belle, Capt. Julian Harvey, 45, was found in a lifeboat with the body of Terry Jo's sister, Renee, 7, on Monday and was taken to Nassau by a passing freighter. Harvey was suffering from shock and exposure. He said he found the body of Renee floating in a lifejacket.

Also aboard the 60-foot ketch on a cruise were Terry Jo's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Duperrault, their son, Brian, 14, and Mrs. Mary Dene Harvey, a former Milwaukeean and wife of the skipper.

Yugoslav Vessel Escorted Past Yacht Picket Line

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Coast Guard cutters escorted a Yugoslav freighter to its berth in San Diego harbor before dawn today past a picket line of yachts.

The freighter Gundulic is to load four Navy jet trainer planes. An organization called "Patriots Unlimited" is protesting sale of the planes to Yugoslavia by the United States.

About 20 yachts formed a picket line as the freighter entered the harbor. A Coast Guard spokesman said a few of the yachts were ordered away from the Gundulic when they approached closer than 200 feet.

"There was nothing serious," he said.

The picket yachts turned their lights on the freighter and some yachtsmen shot off firecrackers. Others encouraged Gundulic crewmen to jump ship, holding up illuminated signs inscribed "This is your chance to jump to freedom."

Immigration officials were aboard a Coast Guard cutter to watch for any crewmen jumping ship.

Refugee Almost Pulled Back Into East Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Seven East Berliners escaped during the night, West Berlin police reported, but East Berlin police almost captured one recent refugee who was drunk at the wrong place.

The man, who fled recently from East Berlin, reeled up to the Friedrichstrasse crossing and stepped a few inches over the line. An East policeman seized his arm. Three West Berlin customs inspectors and a West Berlin policeman grabbed the man and pulled him back.

Army Will Grant Christmas Leaves Where Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it will give Christmas leave to as many troops as possible, including reservists and guardsmen recently called to duty.

The policy will also cover the 16,000 draftees ordered to report for processing within the first 15 days of December.

"This action," said the Army Thursday, "will permit a maximum number of trainees to go on leave during the period Dec. 23, 1961 through Jan. 2, 1962."

The Army said activities at training centers will be limited during that period.

The Marine Corps is handing out 10-day leaves to some of its men in two waves. Some will start Dec. 17 and 18 and others will start Dec. 23 and 24.

Marine recruits in boot training, however, will not receive holiday leave.

The Navy, said a spokesman, has no general policy on Christmas leaves. It is up to fleet commanders and naval district commanders.

There was no immediate word from the Air Force on whether it will grant holiday leaves.

Station Robbed At Gunpoint

$84 Taken as Bandit Holds Revolver at Head of Attendant

An Appleton service station was robbed of $84 Thursday evening by a man who stuck the muzzle of a revolver against an attendant's head and told him to hand over the money.

Leonard Groeschel, 18, 129 N. Richmond St., an attendant at Zephyr Service Station, 801 W. College Ave., told police the man entered the station at about 6:10 p.m. and went into the men's washroom.

A minute later, Groeschel said, he felt the gun against the left side of his head. He was seated at a desk.

The man told Groeschel to "Give me all of your bills. Give me your halves, too."

When he had the money, he told the attendant to "tell the police I have red hair or something" because if he got caught he would spend 10 years in Wau-pun, after which, the holdup man said, he would come out and kill Groeschel.

The man left the station and went down S. Locust St., Groeschel said.

Groeschel said the man was between 27 and 30, had dark, curly hair and a dark complexion, and was wearing a tan jacket and dark trousers. He was about six feet tall, Groeschel said, and weighed about 180 pounds.

McNamara Acts to Safeguard Troops on Nonmilitary Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara today ordered tighter military safety control over nonscheduled airlines carrying troops in the United States.

McNamara's action, announced at a news conference, is an aftermath of the death of 74 Army recruits Nov. 8 in the crash of an Imperial Airlines plane near Richmond, Va.

McNamara directed that only nonscheduled which have been approved by the Military Air Transport Service, or the major regular airlines be used for moving military passengers by air.

"This action, effective immediately, is to further assure that the department is providing air transportation for its personnel which affords maximum safety and reliability of service," McNamara said.

ing freighter and brought to Miami by a Coast Guard helicopter. She had been thought lost with four other members of her family when their chartered boat went down Sunday night near the Bahamas.

Just a Fairy Story

Once upon a time—on Dec. 9, 1948—the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide was adopted unanimously by the General Assembly of the United Nations. Most countries signed the Convention, including representatives of the United States although the Senate has never ratified it to make the treaty binding upon us. But since the tons of oratory that lauded the Convention and the fact that the Soviet Union nobly ratified it, the subject has seldom come up again. Why?

Genocide is described in the Convention as killing members of the group, causing serious bodily or mental harm to members of the group, deliberately inflicting on the group conditions calculated to bring about the physical destruction in whole or in part, imposing measures intended to prevent births within the group, and forcibly transferring children of the group to another group. These must be accompanied by the "intent to destroy, in whole or in part, a national, ethnical, racial or religious group."

Long before the adoption of the Convention, the Soviet Union had systematically destroyed hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians for their reluctance to accept the Communist system. But the Convention need not be applied post facto. Is not the terrorizing of the East German people "causing serious bodily or mental harm"? Was not the destruction of the Hungarians by slaughter, torture, brainwashing, deportation, and terror a clear act of genocide? The Baltic peoples have been almost as firmly pushed into oblivion as the Jews were by the Nazis although not so bombastically. The Poles must struggle to retain any semblance of national or ethnic individuality. Clearly, whatever the amount of failure, this has been the crime of genocide on the part of the Soviet Union.

The Convention's means of dealing out punishment are inoperative of course or the Russians never would have signed the treaty. Individuals are supposed to be brought to trial within the state where the crime is committed. Accusations against nations are supposed to be brought to the International Court of Justice which, however, must respect clauses of another treaty limiting jurisdiction to cases the accused nation agrees is not merely domestic. Obviously the Russians consider any actions in any satellite, or for that matter anywhere in the world, as domestic in scope.

But breaches of such solemn treaties as the Genocide Convention ought to be continually brought up within the General Assembly. Of what use are new treaties, concerning nuclear test bans or disarmament, when there has been such arrogant flaunting of those in existence?

The United Nations has been a body of speeches, resolutions and noble sentiments. In a few areas, notably the Gaza strip and the Congo, there have been efforts to keep the peace. But, aside from the many committee accomplishments in such areas as health and education, the U. N. has failed to take a really consistent stand for the cause of humanity. There should not only be resolutions condemning the rape of Hungary; there should be charges of the breach of treaty.

Russia's continual perfidy within the U.N. has been compiled and listed often by United States delegates. But why doesn't somebody charge the Soviet Union officially with the crime of genocide, and let there be debate on that?

'Overseas Provinces'

Portugal Loses Small Colony To Wave of Anticolonialism

WASHINGTON — The tide of anticolonialism in Africa has washed Portugal's smallest overseas territory off the map.

Sao Joao Baptista de Ajuda—which was seized recently by the young republic of Dahomey—was Portuguese enclave containing an old fort and grounds in the Dahomey port of Ouidah on the Gulf of Guinea.

The area was actually a residency, ornamented rather than defended by a pair of ancient brass cannons. It covered about four acres, says the National Geographic Society. Its population of six or seven Portuguese included the resident, his assistant and household.

Nationalist Success
Though minute, the loss of the Fort of St. John the Baptist made news as one of the few nationalist inroads into Portugal's vast possessions. The British, French, and Dutch have given up part or most of their colonies. Portugal still rules a total of some 807,000 square miles of land in Africa, Asia, and Oceania.

Nearly 800,000 square miles are scattered in and about Africa: Mozambique on the east coast, Portuguese Guinea and Angola on the west, Cape Verde Islands off the African hump, and Sao Tome and Principe Islands in the Gulf of Guinea. St. John's Fort was grouped with the Gulf Islands.

Present-day Portuguese, however, do not use the term "empire" in referring to their holdings. By a 1951 law, their "colonies" became "overseas provinces." Thus the Government considers the troubles reported of late from Portuguese Africa to be internal matters, outside the jurisdiction of United Nations inquiry.

Prince Henry
Portugal began accumulating its world-wide territories nearly 500 years ago at the urging of Prince Henry the Navigator. His genius launched the first of a tough and daring breed of explorer-skippers who made Portugal, for a time, the world's strongest power.

From the 15th century on, Portuguese adventurers and colonists landed on the shores and islands of West Africa. Rounding the Cape of Good Hope, they sailed on to claim outposts in India, China, and the Indies.

Other European countries moved in to share the distant lands and commerce, ending Portugal's monopoly of the sea route to India.

Valuable Lands

Brazil — Portugal's great foothold in the New World — declared its independence in 1822. Elsewhere, great expanses of territory remained Portuguese—serving as markets for home products, and as sources of such valuable export commodities as cacao, sugar, palm oil, diamonds, iron, copper, and manganese.

The Fort of St. John the Baptist of Ajuda was established in 1680 as a trading post and military garrison. Founded by the Captain-General of Sao Tome, and named Ajuda from the Portuguese equivalent for adjacent Ouidah, it became the center of Portugal's interests around the Gulf of Guinea. National Geographic pointed out.

As French influence spread to West Africa in the early 19th century, St. John's Fort waned in importance. For a time, its military forces were withdrawn, and the post was turned over to a family of storekeepers who made the most of the profitable international slave trade. The fortress was again reactivated in 1865 under the Portuguese flag, then again its fortunes declined after France consolidated surrounding African kingdoms into the immense colony of French West Africa.

The tiny Portuguese enclave survived long enough, however, to see the recent breakup of the French possession into independent states, and to be itself absorbed by one of the former African components—Dahomey.

Union Advance Made in Virginia

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Nov. 23, 1861.

Information was received at headquarters from Accomack County of the most gratifying character, giving assurance that the expedition dispatched by Gen. Dix to the two eastern shores of Virginia will meet with little or no opposition.

On Sunday (Nov. 17) the flag of the Union was hoisted at Drummond Town, the county seat of Accomack, on a pole which bore the rebel flag the day before. The people of the county had submitted to the authority of the United States and declared their intention in advance of the arrival of the troops.

A flag of truce was sent by Gen. Lockwood to Drummond Town on Saturday. On Friday night 3,000 Rebel troops disbanded, most of them drafted militia. Wherever the officer who bore the flag of truce went, he was impetuously for Gen. Dix's proclamation, which had been sent among them the day before.

Meeting some of the disbanded men, he asked them why they had broken up so suddenly. The reply was that they had got

Gen. Dix's proclamation, and, believing that they could not stand out against the force we were about to send against them, they thought it better to disband. Others came up and said boldly they never did want to go into the business, had all the time disapproved of it but were compelled to service by hot-headed secessionists.

The majority of the people look upon the troops to be sent among them as deliverers from cruelty and oppression. Hurras for the Union were quite frequent. At one place the American flag was hung out.

Carley's Governor Ambition No Surprise

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The recent publicity about David Carley's stated intention to run for the Democratic nomination for governor if Gov. Nelson does not will be filed under "anti-climax" by his associates and adversaries in state politics.

Anybody interested in state affairs who has not known about the favorite ambition of this ambitious young man for the last six months simply wasn't listening.

From the state capitol perspective, moreover, the incident will be judged other than on its literal terms. It is more likely a sign of the behind-the-scenes maneuvering among Democrats about the succession to the governorship after Nelson, than an explicit guarantee that the head of the new state department of resource development proposes to run for the state's highest office almost before he has proved himself in his subordinate place, and, indeed, before he has secured that place. The state senate has not yet voted confirmation of Carley, under the provisions of the 1959 law which set up his program.

ANTI-REYNOLDS

The Carley confession of his ambition came within a few hours after Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds talked in public about his own intention to take over Nelson's seat if the governor decides to vacate it.

To some persons the Carley Green Bay announcement appeared to be contrived. However that may be, it was clearly intended to convey to the Democratic cognoscenti that they are not to assume that Reynolds will have an uncontested path to a gubernatorial nomination.

It might also have been intended as an oblique warning that Nelson may want to have something to say about the selection of his successor, and that he is not entirely keen on the idea of Reynolds taking over after him. Reynolds, it must be remembered, is the fond friend of Chairman Patrick J. Lucey, and rushed into Lucey's corner with some explicitly unfriendly references to the Nelson staff and circle when the governor two months ago unsuccessfully tried to unhorse the party machine commander.

Whether Carley is in a position to speak even obliquely for the Nelson administration only can be guessed. But there will be many who will suppose that he can and that he does, observing his key status in the Nelson government and his growing stature as a Nelson lieutenant.

THE ERROR

It is precisely because the Carley domain in the capitol is growing and that he has been delegated to handle the variety of conservation programs in which Nelson is so deeply interested that his remark about a gubernatorial candidacy may turn out to be a grave error.

As a declared seeker after political office, he will now be a conveniently sitting duck in the path of the Republican artillery which has been turned on him so often and so heavily in the past.

His enemies can now ask, with some plausibility, whether the gradually expanding powers of this administrator are related to the welfare of the important jobs entrusted to him or whether they have a connection with feeding his personal ambition.

Carley today is the most important single figure in the state government's conservation program as a whole, which is increasingly coming within his jurisdiction. His department is central in the execution of the new "crash" program for which the handsome $50,000,000 appropriation for the next decade has been provided. Wisconsin has had a record of insisting upon non-political handling of its natural resource conservation affairs. Carley as a political candidate, real or otherwise, may tend to put this effort in an equivocal light even before it has got off the ground.

Big Change Coming for Farmers

From The Wichita Eagle

Thinking among agricultural authorities in Washington is said to be in the direction of waiting for more government controls until most of the farmland is operated by the younger generation. The incoming farmers will conduct their operations as a business instead of a way of life. They will want management programs with government consent or in partnership with Washington.

This is another way of saying what has been said many times before. Political subservience to "the family farm" is lip service only. Most informed people realize there is an inexorable trend toward bigger, more business-like farmsteads operated to improve prices through controlled output.

Whether this will take a form of government sanctions for all farmers to organize around a crop and put drastic controls on marketing with the consent of public law is the question. But some such thing is obviously coming to replace the multi-billion dollar appropriations year after year which are getting nowhere so far as improving agricultural income is concerned.

The big change is coming but, as the Washington authorities say, it will wait until old traditions have faded. That is probably more humane than to remove all government aids and put agriculture through that wringing-out process which would have the same result—the replacement of the often inefficient family farm with the efficient farm.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

"Well, I don't agree with industry, Roscoe! ... I think you still got plenty of work left in you! ..."

Forest Fires Pose Threat

The remarkable comeback of Wisconsin's forests has brought praise from business, industry, government and the general public. The record number of trees planted this past year shows that an increasing amount of the state's land will be turned into profitable, taxpaying, income-producing land.

While the reforestation has brought cheers, it also has brought potential problems on a large scale. Forest fires in the Los Angeles area made many people realize that this danger also exists in Wisconsin's forests.

This was pointed out recently by Norman S. Stone, retired president of the Mosinee Paper Mills. Stone, at the White House Regional Conference in Madison, asked federal officials if anything was being done in the area of forest fire prevention.

Stone added that forest fires are posing an increasing threat to the state. Federal officials at the conference agreed that something should be done, but admitted they knew little.

New methods of forest fire fighting have been developed. Even newer methods are being studied in places such as the federal government's Forest Products Laboratory at Madison.

When one realizes that 45 per cent of Wisconsin is forested, the seriousness of the problem is seen. Add to this the fact that an increasing number of people are using forests for recreational purposes and the problem becomes even more acute.

It is not enough merely to put up Smokey the Bear signs, urging fire prevention. Increased emphasis must be placed on the science of fire fighting.

The emphasis must include education of the general public, increased training and equipment for professional foresters and conservation department employees, and basic research into fire prevention.

The reforestation of the northern sections of Wisconsin offers a great hope to the economically depressed areas of the state. Forest fires could wipe out progress and set the entire section back to where it was a half century ago.

Blue Laws in Virginia

Almost every state in the union has its blue laws and Virginia is no exception. However, the latest additions to the Virginia blue laws, which were passed nearly two years ago but only recently have become effective, were held up while the supreme court decided the question of legality.

The laws went into effect shortly before Halloween and there was a big to-do over whether merchants would be permitted to sell pumpkins on Sunday. One citizen learning that pumpkins were salable went to the store with his son intending to pick out a Halloween mask. The mask, however, was in a different category from the pumpkin. After he had spent about an hour looking through a big pile of Halloween masks, he finally selected one but was told the item couldn't be sold on Sunday.

Many women complained that they had learned of runs in their stockings at the last minute while dressing for church but the sale of stockings on Sunday is forbidden.

A young attorney who operates a laundromat as a sideline was arrested by police and charged with violating the blue law. He pleaded guilty but said that he had been out to drill with the National Guard at Camp Pendleton all day Saturday and felt he should operate the laundromat for his customers on Sunday. Blue laws come about because merchants are unwilling to keep open the long hours necessary to meet all competition and so they ask the state to close their competitors down. The result usually is such a hodgepodge that there is serious doubt whether more people are helped than are injured by such laws. A member of the Arlington County Board of Supervisors gave his opinion of the new blue laws in these words, "Archaic, contradictory, hypocritical, and offensive." More could be said but it would be unnecessary. Blue laws usually bring on the blues anywhere.

The General Goofed

Gen. James Van Fleet has shown tremendous leadership and courage in his various military commands during World War II and the Korean fracas. But he can still look pretty silly.

At what apparently was supposed to be an off-the-record meeting of conservation people in Florida, the general sounded off on world affairs. Laos and Berlin were both about lost, he said, and neither the French or West Germans would fight with us "and I don't think we should fight for them." Moreover Ambassador to the U.N. Adlai Stevenson was responsible for the Cuban fiasco last spring.

But one newspaperman present wrote up the general's remarks and Ambassador Stevenson wired that "the charge you have repeated is totally false." The general stood corrected and apologized.

People often complain that fear of newspaper publicity keeps them quiet when they should speak out. But merely saying something isn't enough, at least for a prominent figure like Gen. Van Fleet, recently appointed a special military consultant by President Kennedy. When they make wild charges, without having the facts, they deserve to be publicly shown up as wrong.

Politicians Fight for Defense Contracts

Best Job for Cheapest Price Is 2nd Consideration at Times

BY JAMES McCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Congressmen and senators battle vigorously for defense contracts for their districts or states, often fight openly if there's a threat to close down a military installation in their constituencies.

Some have wondered along on occasion whether obtaining the best defense for the cheapest price hasn't, at times, become a secondary consideration.

Said Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss.), a member of the House Appropriations Defense Subcommittee, in testifying before a congressional committee last year:

"I am convinced defense is only one of the factors that enter into our determinations for defense spending.

"The others are pump priming, spreading the immediate benefits of defense spending, taking care of all the services, giving all defense contractors a fair share, spreading the military bases to include all sections. . ."

Third of Series

Special Interests

He added later on the House floor that special interests involved in military spending are "probably the biggest factor in American domestic policy and politics."

President Eisenhower complained about the same sort of thing on several occasions.

"Obviously political and financial considerations," rather than "strict military needs," were influencing defense budget debates in congress, he observed in June of 1959.

Later that year he said that if such forces were allowed to prevail "everybody with any sense knows that we are finally going to a garrison state."

Example of congressional concern for contractors and their interests are many.

Strong Protest

One of the first senators to protest strongly Sen. of Defense Robert S. McNamara's recent decision to stop production on the B-52 strategic bomber was Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.).

The headquarters of the Boeing Airplane Co., which makes the Boeing, is located in Jackson's home state, in Seattle.

In fairness to Jackson, it should be pointed out that he has long been a serious student of military preparedness and is highly regarded in the field by many of his colleagues.

Some, however, have jocularly described him as "the gentleman from Boeing."

Boeing, however, is not the only aircraft company with congressional friends. Rep. James Wright (D-Tex.) is sometimes known by his colleagues as "the congressman from Convair."

Builds B-58's

Convair, a subsidiary of General Dynamics, produces the B-58 bomber in Wright's home district in the Fort Worth area.

Wright, in a special appearance before the House Armed Services Committee, asked for stepped up production on the B-58 as "the best bomber we have."

Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand (R-Calif.) is also interested in bombers—particularly the proposed B-70 super-bomber. North American Aviation, Inc., prime contractor for the B-70, is in Hiestand's district.

Hiestand wrote McNamara earlier this year to assure him of "the strong congressional support for this valued program."

McNamara, however, also cut back on B-70 spending.

Some congressmen and senators also work closely with representatives of one or another of the armed services and their contractors when they are seeking funds.

Musters Support

The Army proved that it could muster congressional support during debate on the Nike-Zeus anti-missile missile system.

The Army mounted a drive earlier this year—through Army Magazine, official publication of the Association of the U. S. Army—to try to get Nike-Zeus into production.

No fewer than six senators and congressmen took to the floors of their respective chambers to urge the program on. Frequently quoting Army Magazine. Each one was from a district or state that would get at least a slice of Nike-Zeus spending.

Pentagon officials have become used to the pattern and take congressional pressure in stride.

Says one top official: "It's just a part of the Democratic system at work. No congressmen or senator would stay in office long if he didn't present the interests of his constituents."

Equal Concern

Congressmen and senators exhibit equal concern over military installations in their home states and districts. Two hundred and eighty-two of the 437 congressional districts have at least one military installation.

A classic example of this kind of interest was the bitter fight waged by the Illinois congressional delegation over Army proposals to have the Army Quartermaster Food and Container Institute moved from Chicago to Natick, Mass.

Although the institute is a relatively tiny operation, with fewer than 300 employees, the Illinois delegation tied up the entire House for hours fighting to retain it.

When McNamara announced the closing of 73 military installations earlier this year — 52 of them in the United States — the Defense attorney general, however, said that they received fewer than expected. They say they received a flood of "inquiries" from Capitol Hill but that only 10 or 12 of them could be considered "major."

'Major Inquiry'

A "major inquiry," they say, involves correspondence over a period of time and requests for meetings with defense officials.

Patterns of congressional power have been noted in decisions around the location of some military installations.

Georgia, for example, the home of the chairmen of both the Senate and the House Armed Services Committees, has 19 defense installations.

A brave general is credited with telling a congressional committee that one more base in Georgia "would sink the state."

Another factor in congressional defense politics is personal ties, many congressmen and senators have with one or another of the armed services.

There are 40 reserve officers in congress, including six generals. Many, such as Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.), a major general in the Army Reserve, are spokesmen for their service.

Some of them take part in battles between the services, still another facet of the politics of survival.

Former Pilot Announces New Airline Plans

Proposed Feeder Would Connect 8 Wisconsin Cities

SHEBOYGAN (AP)—A former commercial pilot has announced plans for forming a new commercial airline with headquarters at the Sheboygan Municipal Airport.

Robert B. Tromblee of Mequon said he has applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for certification of the proposed feeder line which would connect Sheboygan with eight other cities in Wisconsin, northern Illinois and Upper Michigan.

Sheboygan Service

Tromblee asked for certification in the event that the CAB rejects CAB upholds the recommendation that North Central Airlines be required to provide service to Sheboygan. Tromblee said that if the CAB upholds the recommendation, his group would be willing to take over service from North Central. Tromblee said his proposed airline would connect Chicago with Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Sturgeon Bay, Manitowish, Mich., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., on a primary route. Secondary flights would serve Fond du Lac and Madison from Sheboygan and Fond du Lac directly from Milwaukee. A Manitowish flight would serve as a connection with North Central.

the breakaway province of Katanga.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson told the council the "revolting murder" pointed up the need for U.N. action against the mutinous force of more than 2,000 believed led by leftist leader Antoine Gizenga.

He proposed that the U.N. make available to the central regime "a small but effective air force" to deal with secessions in both Oriental and Katanga provinces.

Zorin Criticizes U. S.

Stevenson said the United States would present a resolution to the Council to give U Thant authority to deal with the entire Congo problem.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin joined in the expressions of regret over the deaths of the Italian airmen but accused Stevenson of trying to divert attention from Katanga by bringing up activities of the Gizenga forces in the eastern Congo.

Zorin also loosed an attack on Belgium, whose Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak is taking part in the council debate.

"Belgium and its mercenaries are the power which moves this foreign interference in the affairs of the Congo," Zorin declared, "and some greater powers abet them."

African and Asian delegates generally made no public comment on the murder of the Italians, and Nathan Barnes of Liberia opposed Stevenson's demand that the council take up the situation in Katanga as well as the Katanga secession. Barnes contended that the council had not been informed officially of the developments in Katanga.

of the silo. To remedy this, the hole used today was lined with a three-inch thickness of a substance resembling acoustical tile.

Before launching, the missile rested on a hydraulically operated ring which hung suspended on metallic straps 17 feet from the bottom of the shaft. This system will permit Minuteman to remain pointed on its intended trajectory even though a nearby nuclear blast might knock the silo slightly ajar.

Major objectives of the test were to determine how Minuteman withstands the punishing forces of an underground launching.

Once Minuteman is operational, the Defense Department plans the biggest missile buildup in this nation's history. The first three 50-missile squadrons will be buried on the Montana prairie. A total of 600 missiles is planned for western United States bases by 1964, with officials considering an eventual force of 2,500 Minutemen.

Once in place, the easily stored and handled solid-fuel weapons will be manned and guarded only through remote control. In an emergency, two men in an underground control center miles away could launch all 50 rockets in a squadron in minutes. The missiles will be able to deliver a nuclear warhead to targets up to 6,300 miles away.

the moderate Republicans in both houses.

The Republican caucus decided that the Nelson bill will be put on the assembly calendar of next Monday or Tuesday, and that the agreed amendments will be drafted meanwhile. But it seemed unlikely that a decisive vote on the floor can be had before the following week.

Alfonsi said that one of the difficulties in the Nelson bill that remains unresolved and may be hazardous is the issue of redistribution of existing state-shared taxes, a point on which Nelson has insisted. Most Republicans would prefer to keep the traditional distribution system unchanged.

Principal Changes

Alfonsi in reporting on changes in the bill to which Nelson has privately agreed provided details that differed from the changes Nelson had outlined in his news conference Tuesday.

Here, in the Alfonsi account, are the principal changes Nelson has approved:

point in any Berlin agreement with the Soviets and there must be no retreat from this "non-negotiable" demand.

"First of all," Adenauer declared, "the wall must go. The non-negotiable elements are: The freedom of Berlin must be preserved, the wall must go and the communications with Berlin and West Germany must remain secure because without them Berlin cannot live."

Adenauer also gave West Germany's ambassador to Moscow, Hans Kroll, a public vote of confidence and said Kroll would return to his post. The ambassador had been summoned back to Bonn to report on allegations that he had made proposals contrary to West German foreign policy to Khrushchev.

"I want to state that Herr Kroll committed no indiscretions," Adenauer said. Kroll, he said, had been asked by Khrushchev to state his views on how the East and West could resolve the Berlin issue and "it is obvious that he could not say he would first have to contact his foreign office for instructions."

Bob Kennedy Has No Fallout Shelter

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the President, has no family fallout shelter.

At a news conference Thursday night, he said he plans no shelter until a federal policy is established leading toward shelters for everyone.

"Until then," he said, "I'm going to wait."

Each player dips his string into the paste (Figure 2), then lays it on his writing paper in any shape he chooses. Common Market Keen Competitor

BY SYLVIA PORTER

When the economic history of the United States is written, 1961 will be recorded as one of the great turning points in our existence as a nation.

It is no exaggeration to suggest that the decisions we begin to make now on trading and co-operating with a Europe uniting in a mighty Common Market will be vital in determining whether we move on to new heights of economic power in association with other free nations or deliberately forfeit our role as leader of the Western world.

It is also no accident that in the past fortnight, there has been a rash of statements and speeches by top policy-makers in both parties urging that we become aware of what is happening around us.

How Many Hear

The trouble is, as it usually is, that the experts talk to each other. Lofty words are being spoken about the challenge to us of the booming Common Market across the seas, but how many hear the words? In this and the next two columns, therefore, I'll pose the questions I've asked myself, try to answer them as simply as I can.

Q. What is happening in Europe that is so important to us?

A. The original six nations, which joined to form the Common Market only four years ago have been a dazzling success in boosting their production and sales, creating a boom among themselves and achieving remarkable rates of growth. Since nothing succeeds like success, the original six now are being joined by Britain and other nations this side of the Iron Curtain. Within a few years, the economic political union of Europe will include 18 nations, among them our largest customers. The European Common Market will have a population of 328 million against 181 million in the United States, 214 million in the USSR. Its steel output will dwarf ours and Russia's, its auto and electrical production will be much bigger than Russia's, second only to ours.

Watch Accidentally Goes Down Drain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Down the drain went Maureen M. Gray's $2,000 diamond-studded wrist watch.

themselves, they're raising a common tariff wall against outsiders — and the United States today is an outsider. We're going to find it increasingly tough to sell to the Common Market and we're going to find an aggressive, low-cost producing Common Market an increasingly tough competitor for all the world markets.

As one stark illustration, autos produced in the Common Market will move duty-free among the members but the tariff proposed against cars coming from the United States will add 29 per cent to the price of our autos.

As other examples of the discrimination we'll be up against, the Common Market tariff on radio and TV sets will be 20 per cent, on dishwashers, 18 per cent, on most clothing, 20-22 per cent. Let us not hide from the facts. If our commercial relationships and remain as they are our export trade will be seriously threatened. Tomorrow continued. Our walls against Europe's walls.

Lawrence Symphony Fall Concert Sunday

Conductor Kenneth Byler Leaves
Soon for Period of Study in Europe

Lawrence College musicians and a group of their Appleton patriots will be onstage at Memorial Chapel at 8:15 p. m. Sunday for the 61-piece Lawrence Symphony Orchestra's fall concert.

For Conductor Kenneth Byler, associate professor of music at the conservatory, this is a temporary farewell. He leaves the campus next semester for a period of European study.

Pianist Theodore Rehl of the conservatory staff will be guest soloist for the concert and will play the Bartok "Concerto No. 3," a work which had its premiere in Philadelphia in 1949.

The concerto was a culmination of Bartok's musical life. When he wrote it, he knew he had little time to live. In it are some of the most serene passages of modern piano literature as well as virtuoso passages, dissonances and turbulence. Summed up, the concerto's three movements are among the most moving pieces Bartok wrote. The work was dedicated to his wife.

Also programmed are symphonies of William Boyce, 18th century English contemporary of Handel, and Robert Schumann. The Mozart "Divertimento in F major, K. 138" rounds out the program.

Byler and the orchestra will open with the fifth of Boyce's eight symphonies. Its three movements are scored for two high trumpets, two oboes, and strings, giving a sort of "concerto grosso" appearance in today's terms. Schumann's "Symphony No. 4 in D Minor" is generally characteristic of his orchestral writing. But it is uniquely played without pauses between movements, and with the reappearance of certain motives throughout the work. It is numbered last among his four symphonies, but technically came second in line. The reason for this is that Schumann revised it completely in years following its conception in 1841 and it was not performed until 10 years later. Completed, it was a great experiment in form, which displayed a rich weaving of themes and rhythms, speeds, and volumes.

Theodore Rehl, assistant professor of music at Lawrence Conservatory, will appear as soloist with the Lawrence Symphony orchestra at the 8:15 p.m. concert Sunday night at Memorial Chapel.

Finally, there is the Mozart "Divertimento," the last of three such works he wrote for strings alone. It was written in Salzburg in 1772, and has the elements of a true symphonic style, rather than the chamber music texture which is usually the character of a divertimento.

The program is as follows:

Speeder Refuses to Sell Sports Car And Shave Goatee

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Sell his sports car? Shave his goatee? Nothing doing, says James E. Young, 20.

He announced he will appeal a 90-day jail sentence and a $300 fine for speeding.

White Students Choose Negro Girl as Queen

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A Negro girl has been named Miss City College by a committee of white students at the all-male high school in Baltimore. The new queen, Dorothy Evonne

White, 16, will be crowned at a dance Thanksgiving night.

Miss White, a senior at Eastern High School, was selected from among 30 girls who had submitted applications and photographs to a 10-member committee of City College students.

Color Adds To TV Show Of Van Gogh

BY TV SCOUT

8:30-9:30 (Channel 4-5) — Invite yourself over to the nearest color TV set to watch Vincent Van Gogh: A Self-Portrait tonight. Much of this special on the life of the Dutch painter was shot in the locales where he lived. These beautiful vistas, plus dozens of his paintings, are a glorious sight in color. The biography is accomplished neatly through the use of two off-screen voices — Martin Gabel is general narrator and Lee J. Cobb is the voice of Van Gogh, speaking the artist's words as Vincent poured his soul out in letters to his brother, Theo. Cobb deserves a special word of praise for his ability to breathe life into Van Gogh's letters. (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Tonight's Rawhide seems to have crossed the trail of Frontier Circus. The drivers discover a tiny touring circus and it's up to Wishbone (Paul Brinegar) to guide the stranded performers to their next date. The circus people are complicated by that tired cliché — the older man who is jealous of the attentions being paid his beautiful young wife by the handsome young star.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5) — International Showtime returns for a second visit with the Baier Ice Ballet, a German outfit with fine skaters. You'll see solos and chorus numbers and clowns in action. Two numbers, set to lovely music, are miniature operettas.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — The Route 66 do-gooders, Tod and Buz, are working in a Baltimore shipyard this week. Poor Buz (George Maharis), who ordinarily is the most thoughtful of men, raises a fuss in the personnel office and causes the girl clerk there to break out in tears. What he doesn't know is that this is her first day at work after a stay in a mental institution.

9:30 (Channel 2) — The Twilight Zone seems about to take the easy way out of its self imposed dilemma tonight—then it switches with a second ending that makes it a dandy. The problem is that the Earth has gone wild and it is drifting closer to the sun. Two women — Lois Nettleton and Betty Garde — desperately try to survive. Rod Serling wrote this good yarn.

9:30-10 (Channel 4-5) — It's a big night for art on TV. Right after the Van Gogh special comes Frank McGee's Here and Now, which has as its major piece the coverage of Wednesday's auction of Rembrandt's painting, "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer," at New York's Park-Bernet Galleries. Five camera crews were used to cover this, to get all the auction action. Two other items on the show will be the sequence about a man who is building a mountain for skiing in Vermont and the tragedy in Berwick, Pa., where the American Car and Foundry Co. is closing a plant which employs "several thousand" men — in a city of 14,000 people.

Opera Singer Better, To Sing 'Butterfly' Role Next Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Leontyne Price's doctor has approved her return to the Metropolitan Opera sooner than had been expected. She is scheduled to sing the title role of "Madame Butterfly" on Nov. 21. Previously, her engagements had been cancelled through Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23. The change in plans was announced Thursday.

The Negro soprano was stricken with an acute virus infection of the throat during a Met performance on Oct. 31 and was replaced in the last act. She has been under treatment at her home here.

Millions of Midges Invade Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Millions of midges invaded downtown Birmingham late Thursday, creating a general nuisance. Shoppers shielded their eyes against the swarms of tiny, non-biting gnats and brushed them out of their hair and from their clothing. The City Health Department said the pests were harmless and

Report Card Day Brings Odd, Tense Atmosphere Into House

I don't know how it is at your house, but over at ours when it is time for the three boys to show their report cards the house somehow is permeated with a strange, tense atmosphere.

I have never been able to recognize the atmosphere as a pre-report card phenomenon until it is over and done with. Then I look back upon the brief days and I suddenly recognize them for what they were. I know then that I should have recognized the period.

I don't know exactly what it is that causes the atmosphere to be charged with eeriness, but I think that small boys have a way of doing their worrying so that it can be felt like a splat across the face with a shovel.

House

Sense of Unease

At any rate, the strange period is filled with a sense of unease, a turgid tenseness that exudes and fills the house. The boys, I think, are worrying so hard that the worry turns into a kind of a chemistry which can be felt physically.

Then, suddenly, the strange atmosphere is gone and I will soon know that TODAY is the day the report cards must be brought home. It is usually on this day that I recognize what has been going on which has caused me to feel oppressed by something I did not heretofore understand.

But on the important day, each one of the boys will seem to take on a cheery air and each, in turn, will announce that today they will bring home the report card. I do not think this cheery mien is planned; I suspect the boys have done all the worrying they are capable of, and now they wash their hands of the burden; it is too late to contemplate what is to come.

Day to Get Ready

During the day I ready myself. I prepare for a certain amount of dignified horror at what I am to see, and I determine to say exactly the right thing with exactly the proper amount of stern force. Each of the three boys has his own way of presenting the report card and I believe they are rather skilled at this.

One son, if his report card bears happy tidings will casually drop it in my lap and then go about his business, peering at me secretly while he pretends to be doing something else. I know my obligations, and I know that I should act joy. I am not a good actor. There is something rigid in my nature which prevents me from expressing silent joy.

Raised Eyebrows

Nevertheless, I read the report card and raise my eyebrows in what seems to me to be a good way to express silent joy. Mrs. House has informed me that she does not think my acting is sufficiently convincing.

"You did not look joyous," she said once. "You look more like you are going to spit on the floor."

When I am finished with this joyous job, I speak a few words of pleasure and pride, but I must be careful not to crow too loudly or too long because I take the father-

Attorney Says He Has Statements On Jail Party

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—State's Atty. William Nash says he has written statements from six former inmates who said they participated in sex and drinking parties in the Winnebago County Jail.

Nash said he cannot reveal the contents of new evidence turned over to him Friday by the Rockford Police Department after questioning of other former prisoners.

He said the evidence "further confirms" charges made by a former woman prisoner which touched off the investigation.

Harold Sabherhagen, manager of the Rockford State Unemployment Compensation office, said state agents are investigating how a jail inmate was able to collect jobless benefits.

Sabherhagen said his records showed that Ivan Boomhower was given five unemployment checks totaling $145 in a five week period when Boomhower was in the Winnebago County Jail.

Earlier in the day Kirk S. King, who was defeated by Sheriff Iver Johnson for sheriff in 1958, held a meeting to kick off his campaign for election to the sheriff's job near year. Johnson cannot succeed himself by law.

Project HOPE Sails Again Ship Plans Trip To South America To Answer Requests

The S.S. HOPE will go to South America on its second voyage in 1962 in answer to requests from Latin medical and health authorities. Dr. William B. Walsh, president of Project HOPE, has announced.

Project HOPE is the medical teaching-training program of the People-to-People Health Foundation. Its most familiar vehicle is the hospital training ship, a former Navy hospital ship on loan to the foundation.

Robert Peterson, a former member of the publicity staff at Lawrence College, was public information officer with S.S. HOPE on her one-year maiden voyage to Southeast Asia. He is now with the foundation in Washington, D.C.

$10 Million Goal

Dr. Walsh, the Washington internist who was the founder of HOPE, said the project will attempt to raise $10,000,000 to carry out its program for 1962. HOPE is supported by contributions from the American public.

In addition to the cost of the South American voyage of HOPE I, this goal covers the expense of maintaining HOPE'S program in two Asian hospitals. The project has staffed hospitals in Indonesia and South Vietnam, where American volunteers are training local personnel who will eventually take over their work.

"If we reach our ambitious goal of $10 million," Dr. Walsh said, "we would like to put another ship in the water."

Thousands of applications for HOPE's second voyage have been received from medical personnel. The ship had a permanent staff of 60 on her maiden voyage, plus 61 specialists who served as unpaid volunteers for several months each in rotation.

Fraud Charge Dismissed on Lack of Evidence

WAUPACA — Circuit Judge Herbert A. Bunde dismissed a case of fraud brought by Mrs. Pope's son, Jay Pope, Menasha, rather than by her. The dismissal had loaned the defendant $15,000.

Nell Pope, Neenah, against her brother-in-law, Edwin Pope, Wau-paca, on the grounds of insufficient evidence. E. C. Joyce, Neenah, attorney for Mrs. Pope, said the suit would be reinstated with the son as should have been brought by Mrs. Pope's son, Jay Pope, Menasha. It was testified that Mrs. Pope rather than by her. The dismissal had loaned the defendant $15,000.

Hart, attorney for the defendant, replaced with stock in the W. Pope Motor Co. of New London.

Our Children
Children Learn In Own Good Time

BY ANGELO PATRI
Again and again we say, "Children are different," and then we go ahead as if that fact has never occurred to us.
For instance, all children should go to school and learn to read at 6. The truth is that most children do but that some do not. And these few are equally worthwhile with their companions and should be granted the consideration they deserve.
This group is closer in developing the ability to read, to sit and listen and work on schedule time. The attempt to do what is beyond their present ability results

In failure and consequent discouragement and dislike of school and all that pertains to it.
These children should have what we know as pre-school instruction. The kindergarten class usually does this but this group needs further preparation and unless they get it they labor under a heavy handicap that soon brings up the question about leaving them back to get further study and help.
That hurts the parents' pride. Someone else's child is promoted, gets A's and gold stars. Why not their child? "What's the matter with the teacher?" they ask. "Give him more homework. To be left back would be bad for his morale."

Builds Up Defense
What about his moral when from day to day he sees the star of victory on his neighbor's paper and the red mark of failure on his? Think his morale does not suffer?

It does, and he soon finds ways of hiding his mortification. He pretends not to care, covers up by being disorderly, indicating by his actions that he doesn't care a hoot about getting a star. And too often the teacher believes his bluff and his parents, hoping against hope, pretend to believe it too.

The thing to do to save this sort of child is to allow him all the time in a grade he needs. And never mind the neighbor's bright children. This one, given ordinary intelligence and the time he needs to get the basic facts of his courses, will master his situation and go ahead. If he needs two terms in a grade let him have them without any feeling of disgrace about it. He knows he needs help and he will soon feel fine about repeating a grade when he discovers that it is so much easier this time and now he can win a star. Leave him back if he needs it.

Today's Etiquette
BY LOUISE DAVIS

TEEN-AGE IMMATURITY
You will probably say the following situation is only minor, but it really "bugs" me. Aren't wedding gifts, no matter how inexpensive, supposed to be acknowledged? About 6 months ago I gave wedding gifts to two teen-age couples. They didn't cost much as my husband was working but three days a week. I know the gifts were received as they were taken to the bride's homes the day before the weddings. But never a note or a postcard or even a comment came from either couple. Does being a teen-ager excuse them from this courtesy?

Louise Davis Answers:
Absolutely not. Even tiny tots say thank you. After a little while, they know the meaning of the two words and if they're not low grade morons, they eventually know how to write them and to complete sentences with sincerity behind them. Thoughtful mothers who want their children to know the meaning of thoughtfulness will prod and teach them to do what is right and that is to say thank you. Your teen-age friends showed their irresponsibility. This is an infinitesimal example of the potential tragedy of early marriages.

FORK OR SPOON
When served angel food cake with whipped cream, does one eat it with a fork or a spoon?
Louise Davis Answers:
Correctly, a fork is used. If a hostess has dessert spoons, both would come in handy.

Your Problems

Boy 'Gets Even' for Coat Loss
By Stealing One for Himself

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boy friend and I are having a disagreement. He's a fast talker and uses a lot of big words so I'm no match for him.

Last week we went to a nice place for dinner. There was a clothes rack by the door for men's coats. Ron hung his new raincoat there. After dinner his coat was gone. The manager said they are not responsible for such losses.

Two nights later he went back alone and helped himself to a raincoat which was much nicer than his own — and it fit him perfectly. When he bragged to me about it I was shocked.

I say this is stealing. Ron says it is getting even. Who is right? —Deadlocked

Dear Deadlocked: When a person takes something which does not belong to him it is stealing.

Ron's theory that he was "getting even" is a phony. The poor guy whose coat Ron heisted was not responsible for Ron's loss. Why should he be punished? He behaved like the man who knocks his toe on the bedpost and kicks the cat.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Nine of us girls have been playing poker together for over fifteen years. We've had our little differences but after all is said and done we are devoted to each other.

There are rumors around town about the husband of one of our poker circle. He is said to be having an affair with a young girl in his office. We aren't gossip mongers, Ann, but when three of us hear the same story from different sources there must be something to it.

I asked my husband if we should tell the wife. He said to keep our noses out of it.

Don't you feel that in the name of friendship we should wise her up? — True Blues

Dear Blues: In the name of friendship keep quiet. The way to make a mountain out of a molehill is to keep adding the dirt.

DEAR ANN: I'm 21 and engaged to be married soon. My mother passed away when I was 16 but I've had good, solid upbringing.

My fiancé told me last night that his mother wants to have a talk with me on sex in marriage. She feels that since my own mother is dead it's her place.

Frankly there are some unanswered questions in my mind but she's the last person in the world

I'd ask. She's the prying type who is constantly pumping for information. Recently she asked me some questions which I felt were none of her business. I had a hard time controlling my temper. My fiancé says she'll feel hurt if I refuse to have this talk. Should I sit there and grit my teeth to pacify her? — G.R.

Dear G. R.: No. Tell your fiancé that the little chat is unnecessary, but you appreciate her interest.

For those "unanswered questions talk to your doctor — or for less clinical information see a marriage counselor.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Ailing House Plaster Becomes Quite Wet

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
PLASTER UNDER WINDOWS WET

Q: When we have a heavy rain storm, the plaster and paper under the windows get wet. What can be done to remedy this?
A: Either the windows have none or they may have faulty flashings or there may be open joints between the window frames and the house siding. Suggest having a competent carpenter or builder inspect and make corrections. The open joints can be caulked, a caulking gun.

COVERING FURNITURE KNOTS

Q: Sometime ago you had an item about what to put on an unpainted chest of drawers so the knots would not show after it is painted. Could you repeat that? I want to paint an unfinished chest.
A: After the wood surface has been thoroughly cleaned and is free of all trace of grime, grease, etc., apply either a special knot-sealing preparation, available at paint stores, or a coat of pure, fresh, white shellac (thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol), or a coat of aluminum paint to the knots, to prevent "bleeding" through the paint afterwards.

IODINE ON LINOLEUM

Q: Iodine was accidentally spilled on the kitchen floor. How can the stain be removed from the linoleum? Soap or detergent and water does no good.
A: Dampen a cellulose sponge with household ammonia and rub the stain, working as quickly as possible to avoid damage to the linoleum; then rinse with clear water. If the stain is at or near a joint in the linoleum, wipe up the rinse water immediately, so that it will not work down into the cement, eventually causing loosening of the linoleum.

WHITE AREAS ON WALNUT VENEER

Q: What could I do for large white areas that have appeared on my walnut veneer bedroom set?
A: If this has a varnished finish, rub lightly with a piece of stiff flannel slightly moistened in spirits of camphor or essence of peppermint, following the wood grain. After a few minutes, when rubber fabric paints are available, varnish is thoroughly dried, apply a good wax polish. Some times, wiping whitened areas with a soft cloth and mixture of one tablespoon of cider vinegar in a quart of water will remove the discoloration.

up and run the hearts. They will take two spades and three hearts before you are ready to take your own tricks.
No Work Needed
No work is needed on the clubs. If each opponent has three clubs, you can take two additional tricks with your low clubs. There is no harm in leading out the top clubs, but also no advantage. If the clubs break evenly, you can take those tricks whenever you please. If the clubs break 4-2, you will have to abandon the suit, since one additional club trick is not enough.

We come, by elimination, to the diamonds. Here you can set up two additional tricks if the suit breaks 3-3 or if either opponent has a doubleton honor. The ace

Consider Opponent On Suit

When you're wondering which suit to tackle, think of how many tricks you need and consider what the opponents may be doing in the meantime.
Do your planning before you play to the first trick.
You can take seven tricks whenever you please: two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs. You must develop two additional tricks.
It's easy to rule out the spades. You can develop only one additional trick in spades. While you're doing so, the opponents can set

Sponsor Daylight Time Amendment

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Assemblyman Jerome Quinn of Green Bay has joined Assemblyman David Martin of Neenah in the sponsorship of a bill to amend the daylight saving time law to provide for the expiration of daylight saving on the last Sunday of October each year, instead of the last Sunday of September.
The measure, defeated in the assembly earlier this year, was introduced by the assembly committee on rules at the request of the two Republican majority party members.

of hearts must be left in dummy as a final entry to the diamonds. Now you have your plan. Win the first trick with the king of hearts, and cash the top diamonds. When the jack drops, lead the ten of diamonds to set up the rest of dummy's suit.
What if the diamonds failed to break so conveniently? You would know it by the time you had tried a third round of diamonds. Win the heart return and play for a 3-3 break in clubs. You hold the clubs in reserve, in case the diamonds fail to help you.

Daily Question
Partner pens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S 8 7 4, H A 7 3, D K 10 9 5 3, C 8 5. What do you say?
Answer: Pass. Your seven points will not produce a good play for game even if partner has 18 points. You are interested in game only if partner can show that his hand is stronger than a notrump opening bid.

Glaucoma Caused by Eyeball Pressure, Should be Relieved

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. these without having glaucoma. "Dear Dr. Molner: Just what is glaucoma? My mother, age 70, in perfect health, has specks before her eyes, and a mist. The doctor said it was "lens ion" and gave her drops. Now does this mean blindness?—R.H."

Glaucoma is an increase in the tension or pressure inside the eyeball. In time this pressure, if not relieved, can damage the eye to the point of destroying sight. It is indeed, a common cause of blindness.

But that is a far cry from saying that glaucoma "means blindness." Why? Because these days we know enough to treat this tension before it has done that much damage.

Molner

The speck or "floaters," or "vitreous floaters" in the eye, is such a thing. The better and quicker way of detecting the earliest stages of glaucoma is with a small instrument which is placed delicately in contact with the eyeball to measure the pressure.

Suspicious Signs

When there are suspicious signs, such a test should be performed right away, to get treatment started. Sometimes the test is made in more or less routine fashion, just for safety—and occasionally exposes an unsuspected case in its extremely early stages.

U. S. Sends Planes To Strengthen Forces In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —The U.S. Embassy confirmed today that eight advanced T28 light-bomber trainers and four C47 transporters have been assigned to South Viet Nam under the U.S. Air Force program to build up the aerial strength of this Communist-menaced nation.

The spokesman said seven of the trainers and three transporters have already arrived at Bien Hoa a seldom-used airfield 28 miles northeast of Saigon where the Americans have been moving supplies amid strict security over the past two weeks. The rest of the plane shipment is expected by Friday.

More planes are expected later. There have been reports from usually reliable sources that these will include bombers.

Police Seek Hike In Pay, Benefits

MENASHA — Overtime, six paid holidays, more paid vacation time, higher uniform allowance and a general pay increase. While not specifying any pay were requested Thursday by the policemen of the Menasha men held that the cost of living common council.

Three policemen — Capt. R. J. Rappert and Patrolmen Wil- and the new state tax structure, which Ciske and Bernard Konetzke probably will mean more taxes — made the requests for the 1962 for them to pay.

Ald. Fred Block told the police- ment. Instead of compensatory time men it might not be fair to raise off, the policemen asked pay at their pay more than 3 per cent, 1 1/2 times their hourly pay equivalent figure planned for a general city employees' pay increase.

Since the policemen would work New Year's, Memorial Day, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and the councilmen decided to cut a Christmas, they asked double pay fingerprint kit, $85; instant-developer for each of those days. They also asked for a $150; air- noted that industries generally conditioning of police station, new pay their men for those holidays fiberglass boat and new motor, even though not working.

$700,000 Oshkosh Project

Bids Authorized for Remodeling Old High School Into New City Hall

OSHKOSH — Bids for remodeling only a block from the old Oshkosh High School into a new city hall were authorized by the common council Wednesday afternoon.

The work will cost a maximum of $700,000 — the amount authorized in a bond issue referendum last April. Council Pres. Robert Stauffer also stated in the past that the cost absolutely would not exceed that figure.

Work probably will start early next year and be completed early in 1963. The police department also will move into the new quarters, putting it and the city government only a block from the county courthouse.

Downtown Neenah Development Plans Shown by Chamber

NEENAH — A scale model of Neenah's central business district, showing changes proposed under a comprehensive re-development plan drawn up by Kenneth L. Schellie and Associates, Indianapolis planning firm, was received by the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

The model shows established buildings, which would be retained under the redevelopment plan, in dark gray. New and remodeled structures are shown in white.

Such major industrial structures as the Bergstrom Paper Co. plant at Main Street and Wisconsin Avenue and the Kimberly-Clark buildings which front on N. Commercial Street would not be disturbed.

The present city hall building, treasurer's office and fire station are not, however, shown on the model. Instead, the entire city hall block — with the exception of the police station — is devoted to passenger car parking.

New city hall and fire station buildings would be built north of Commercial Avenue between Commercial and Walnut Streets, according to the plan.

Board of Education Studies Possible Budget Reductions

MENASHA — Ordered to cut $952,255. The actual tax levy $92,000 from its 1962 budget, the would be $172,620 over this year's board of education's finance committee.

The entire board will meet Tuesday for a final review, said Supl. of Schools M. J. Gegan. The common council Tuesday told the school board its budget must be cut from the request, which is $171,416 above 1961.

No cuts were made Thursday, but several suggested places for reductions were listed for the board's study.

Gegan termed the ordered reduction drastic and said "it will be impossible to carry on our planned program if reduced to that extent."

The total requested budget for 1962 is $1,062,834, less revenues of $195,104, plus $84,325 for school bond payments, for a net levy of $779,635.

Youth Jailed; Found Guilty on Hit-Run Charge

A Menasha youth is in Outagamie County jail today pending payment of $200 in fines for hit and run driving after his license was revoked.

Richard D. Bojarski, 20, 835 De Pere St., Menasha, was arraigned today before Municipal Judge Gustave J. Keller and was found guilty.

Bojarski was arrested after Appleton and Menasha police investigated a hit and run accident Halloween night on S. Oneida Street.

His badly damaged car was later found in a garage in Menasha. Police, who had a description of the car, questioned youths who were familiar with cars in the area and learned the Bojarski car had not been seen since the accident.

School Bus Issue May be Sidetracked

The attorney general's office has ruled that the constitutional validity of such an act would be uncertain and probably would require a test in the state supreme court.

Argument was hot in the assembly Thursday, after Assemblyman Adrian Manders of Milwaukee, native of De Pere and author of the bill, complained about "the letters of hatred" he had received from opponents.

Assemblyman Greco of Milwaukee asserted that the local option provision is a subterfuge of opponents of the measure to frustrate it and that "they don't have the guts to face the issue on its merits." Greco also complained about "foul letters," he had received.

Assemblyman Wartinbee of La Crosse, a schoolman in private life told his colleagues that he could not "in good conscience" support the bill because he knows it is unconstitutional. He challenged the backers of the measure to introduce an amendment to the state constitution, in order to put the question clearly before the people in a referendum. (A 1946 referendum vote on such a constitutional amendment failed by a slight margin.)

The liberalization of the transportation laws, if approved, would affect largely parochial school children in rural districts and in smaller communities. Under the law compulsory transportation is now provided only for children who live more than two miles from their schools, which involves comparatively few city children.

State school officials estimate that about 26 per cent of approximately 200,000 parochial and private school children might be made eligible for free transportation under the proposal.

Youth Fined $310 On Four Counts in Court at Oshkosh

OSHKOSH—Fines totaling $310 or 93 days in the Winnebago County jail were imposed by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane today on Dennis C. Gehrke, 20, 24 E. 11th Ave., Oshkosh.

Gehrke on Monday and Wednesday pleaded guilty to charges of driving after his license had been revoked, speeding 65 miles an hour on Jackson Street which is 40 miles over the speed limit, failing to obey an officer's signal and disorderly conduct.

He was fined $10 on the failure to obey the signal charge and $100 on each of the other charges. He was arrested last Saturday night by Oshkosh police who had clocked him in a radar check and ordered him to stop. Gehrke drove around the policeman who had to jump out of the way while trying to flag him down, the police reported.

Steinhilber Plans to Prosecute Boater Acquitted by Court

OSHKOSH—Despite acquittal of negligent boating Wednesday in federal court of Adrian Van Lyssel, 43, 1713 W. Rogers St., Appleton Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber said today that Van Lyssel still faces a similar charge in municipal court here.

Van Lyssel was charged in municipal court of Judge Arnold J. Cane on Aug. 18 of reckless operation of a motorboat to which he pleaded innocent and asked for a jury trial. His next appearance had been set for Nov. 28.

The charge is the result of an accident on the Wolf River in the county on Aug. 12 involving Van Lyssel's boat and one operated by Donald Missing, Indianapolis, Ind., formerly of Neenah.

Engineers Keep U. S. Strong, Bayorgeon Says

'Industrial Life Has Created High Living Standards'

KAUKAUNA—America is no stronger than its industrial life and it is the responsibility of the engineers of the United States to keep America in the lead, Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon told members of the Fox Valley Society of Engineers at a dinner meeting at Fond du Lac Thursday night.

Engineering has meant progress and prosperity for the nation and created the highest standards of living in the world, stated Bayorgeon. He foretold of an even more remarkable period of growth and prosperity in the next 10 years with engineers of the Fox Valley playing an important part in the development of the era.

Russia realizes the industrial strength of the nation has been realized mostly through the efforts of engineers, thus Khrushchev has called for greater emphasis on education for engineers to transform the Soviet Union into the world's greatest industrial power in the recent 20-year plan.

Although forecasting a bright industrial future for the next 10 years, Bayorgeon warned of the dangers of complacency and indifference.

New London Youth Jailed After Chase

A New London youth who led the Appleton police on a chase through the city that ended when the car overturned and almost skidded into the river, will spend at least 60 days in jail.

James J. Recker, 21, 120 E. Cook St., New London, was arraigned today before Municipal Judge Gustave J. Keller on charges of reckless driving and driving after his license was revoked.

He was fined $50 or 15 days in jail for reckless driving, plus $100 or 30 days in jail for driving after revocation. He also was sentenced to an additional 60 days in Outagamie County jail on the latter charge.

Recker was arrested at 3:45 a.m. Nov. 12. An Appleton patrolman spotted him speeding on S. Oneida Street and chased him on Calumet, Lawe, E. South River, N. Island, Oneida, S. Island to Lawe to E. Newberry Street.

On E. Newberry the Recker car hit railroad tracks, skidded for 30 feet, hit the west side of the roadway, knocked down two guard poles, missed going into the river by about a foot and a half, and rolled over, landing crossways in the road.

The reference which sometimes comes when times are good. He indicated the period could be a time of false economy with high spending and little saving.

Bayorgeon concluded, citizens of the nation face an uncertain future with confidence and trust in the engineers of America as it is in the hands of these men to keep the United States strong, secure and prepared for all emergencies.

Engineers Keep U. S. Strong, Bayorgeon Says

'Industrial Life Has Created High Living Standards'

KAUKAUNA—America is no stronger than its industrial life and it is the responsibility of the engineers of the United States to keep America in the lead, Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon told members of the Fox Valley Society of Engineers at a dinner meeting at Fond du Lac Thursday night.

Engineering has meant progress and prosperity for the nation and created the highest standards of living in the world, stated Bayorgeon. He foretold of an even more remarkable period of growth and prosperity in the next 10 years with engineers of the Fox Valley playing an important part in the development of the era.

Russia realizes the industrial strength of the nation has been realized mostly through the efforts of engineers, thus Khrushchev has called for greater emphasis on education for engineers to transform the Soviet Union into the world's greatest industrial power in the recent 20-year plan.

Although forecasting a bright industrial future for the next 10 years, Bayorgeon warned of the dangers of complacency and indifference.

New London Youth Jailed After Chase

A New London youth who led the Appleton police on a chase through the city that ended when the car overturned and almost skidded into the river, will spend at least 60 days in jail.

James J. Recker, 21, 120 E. Cook St., New London, was arraigned today before Municipal Judge Gustave J. Keller on charges of reckless driving and driving after his license was revoked.

He was fined $50 or 15 days in jail for reckless driving, plus $100 or 30 days in jail for driving after revocation. He also was sentenced to an additional 60 days in Outagamie County jail on the latter charge.

Recker was arrested at 3:45 a.m. Nov. 12. An Appleton patrolman spotted him speeding on S. Oneida Street and chased him on Calumet, Lawe, E. South River, N. Island, Oneida, S. Island to Lawe to E. Newberry Street.

On E. Newberry the Recker car hit railroad tracks, skidded for 30 feet, hit the west side of the roadway, knocked down two guard poles, missed going into the river by about a foot and a half, and rolled over, landing crossways in the road.

The reference which sometimes comes when times are good. He indicated the period could be a time of false economy with high spending and little saving.

Bayorgeon concluded, citizens of the nation face an uncertain future with confidence and trust in the engineers of America as it is in the hands of these men to keep the United States strong, secure and prepared for all emergencies.

Policy Holders Seek $100,000 in Action Against Lutheran Brotherhood

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Dissident policy holders Thursday filed a $100,000 suit against officials of the Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance Co. whom they seek to oust.

The complaint in Hennepin County District Court charged Carl F. Granrud, Brotherhood president, and John Lienemann, vice president, with neglect of duty and "mismanagement and waste of brotherhood monies."

The suit was, in effect, an answer to one filed by management last month asking that an insurance company's committee produce delegate requests for a special convention or return them to signers. That action is pending.

Keane, Anderson Selected as AHS Grid Co-Captains

UW's Hickman Tells Athletes 'To Sharpen Academic Tools'

BY JOHN L. FAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Backs Pat Keane and Cary Anderson have been named honorary co-captains of the 1961 Appleton High School football team. Their selections were announced Thursday night at the American Legion clubhouse during the 18th annual AHS grid banquet sponsored by the Appleton Lions Club. Terror Coach Ade Dillon awarded 30 varsity letters. Guest speaker John Hickman, of the University of Wisconsin, urged the athletes "to sharpen their academic tools."

In commenting on the Terror's 2-6 season record, Dillon said, "we hope we can build back up. We've proud of our football tradition, even though we don't over-emphasize it."

3 Best Teams

Dillon recounted that his inexperienced squad (two lettermen back) faced the three best teams in the conference (Oshkosh, West and South) at the very start of the schedule and that it was tough to come back from those losses. The squad, however, gained experience as well as some intangible values from the season, the coach indicated.

Pointing to the future, Dillon said that the 60 sophomores out for varsity and JV football comprise the biggest such group for the All-Star starting lineup in his 10-year AHS tenure. He both the National and American awarded six of the sophs varsity letters, was traded to the Baltimore letters—the largest number he ever given.

Soph lettermen are Tom Bauer, a catcher in the minors last season, and two players to be named Hietpas, Rick Martinek and Tom by Dec. 15 to get Temple, who is expected to solve one of the Baltimore problems for the coming season.

Senior Lettermen

Senior lettermen, in addition to Anderson and Keane, are Paul Brummund, Howie Cohadas, Larry Stephens, Dick Stehr, from the Reds in exchange for Wayne Trunrud, Pete Wenzel and pitcher Cal McLish and infielders Gene Sipple. Letters also went to Billy Martin and Gordon Coleman, manager John Metzger and trainer Bill Ridgely.

Hickman, UW swimming coach recreation for four years—1956 and director of the athletic department's student personnel service, emphasized the imporance of organized academic efforts in high school. Many students drift through without developing effective study habits, he said.

Athletes especially must organize their efforts to have ample time for study, Hickman said. He also stressed the importance of finding strengths and weaknesses as a guide to preparing for the future.

Hickman praised Appleton High products Jon Hohman, Ken Stroker, Don Loker and John Cotton, who are now members of UW athletic teams.

Indians Trade Johnny Temple To Baltimore

Orioles Give Up Chiti And Two Players To Be Named Later

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland second baseman John Temple, the only player ever selected in the biggest such group for the All-Star starting lineup in his 10-year AHS tenure. He both the National and American awarded six of the sophs varsity letters, was traded to the Baltimore letters—the largest number he ever given.

Baltimore gave up Harry Chiti, a catcher in the minors last season, and two players to be named Hietpas, Rick Martinek and Tom by Dec. 15 to get Temple, who is expected to solve one of the Baltimore problems for the coming season.

Indians' general manager Gabe Paul, the only man ever to fire Jammie Dykes as manager twice — at Cincinnati and Cleveland — also became the only man to trade Anderson and Keane, are Paul Brummund, Howie Cohadas, Larry Stephens, Dick Stehr, from the Reds in exchange for Wayne Trunrud, Pete Wenzel and pitcher Cal McLish and infielders Gene Sipple. Letters also went to Billy Martin and Gordon Coleman, manager John Metzger and trainer Bill Ridgely.

Duel Strong Newman Cage Team

BY JIM HARP

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Xavier High School entertains a veteran-studded Cardinal Newman High of Wausau in its home basketball opener at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Hawks inaugurated the season on a successful note Tuesday night with a victory over Iola-Scandinavia. This will be the first game of the season for Newman. Despite the 77-42 victory over Iola - Scandinavia Coach Gene Clark of the Hawks not impressed. He rated the Xavier play as "ragged" through the major portion of the contest.

Speed and Shooting

Rebounding also proved a problem for Xavier. The Hawks lack any real tall players and have to rely mainly on their speed and shooting ability to rack up points.

Newman, in addition to having a squad with nine lettermen on it, has good height. Xavier also has nine lettermen, with practically the entire team back from last year since this is the first time the Hawks are playing as a 4-year school.

Newman had a 9-11 record last season, and four of the top six scorers on that team will be back.

Heading the list of senior returnees who are expected to start Saturday night are guard and team captain Al Hlavacek (6-0), John Onopa (6-3) forward and Dick Bailey (6-5) center. A pair of juniors will probably round out the starting five with Mike Banderob (6-2) at a forward and Jim DeBroux (6-0) at the other guard spot.

Top reserves for Newman include Les Caley (5-10) guard, Orrin Newby (6-0) guard, Bob Mullen (6-1) forward, and Judd Schoeneman (6-5) center.

One of Strongest

Newman is rated as one of the four strongest teams in the Central Wisconsin Catholic Conference. Assumption of Wisconsin Rapids, Pacelli of Stevens Point and Campion of Prairie du Chien are all expected to stage a close race for conference honors along with Newman.

Coach Connie Knoche, of Newman, is cautiously optimistic about his team's chances for the season. Despite having good height and experience, Knoche says he expects the squad will be slower.

Xavier's high scoring trio of "Kip" Whidinger, Dick Wiesner and Chuck Lueck is expected to carry on the brunt of the offensive attack.

Bruhn Worried Badgers May Look Ahead to Gopher Tilt

Ron Staley Only One on Injury List

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Badgers, who hope to nail down a winning football season Saturday by beating Illinois, find themselves in the unfamiliar position of having to guard against overteam captain Al Hlavacek (6-0), John Onopa (6-3) forward and Dick Bailey (6-5) center. A pair of juniors will probably round out the starting five with Mike Banderob (6-2) at a forward and Jim DeBroux (6-0) at the other guard spot.

Wisconsin now has a 4-3 record and coach Milt Bruhn says "we want this game badly." A victory would even the Badgers' Big Ten conference record at 3-3 before the game against mighty Minnesota the following week. And Bruhn is worried that his squad might be looking ahead to the Gophers.

The Illini have a good record against the Badgers—handing the Rose Bowl team of 1959 one of its two defeats and whipping Wisconsin 35-14 at Champaign last year.

Ripe for Upset
Bruhn admits the situation is ripe for an upset and says "Illinois has consistently played better against us than it has against some other teams."

Little Nine Conference Will Open Basketball Chase Tuesday Night

Shiocton Defends Title; Close Race Expected

LITTLE CHUTE CONFERENCE
(Final 1960-61 Standings)

Shiocton	12	1	Omro	6	7
Mortonville	11	2	Reedsville	6	7
Hilbert	8	5	Winneconne	6	7
Denmark	7	6	Bear Creek	1	12
Freedom	7	6	Wrightstown	1	12

Tuesday night, the Little Nine Conference will begin what could be its closest basketball race in several years.

In the opinion of conference coaches, any one of eight schools could get hot and win the league crown however, Hortonville, Winneconne and Denmark were the teams most frequently mentioned as contenders.

Denmark features the Little Nine scoring co-champion in 6-4 Dave Larson. The Vikings lost only Paul Schusta from last year's starting team.

Hortonville, which finished second in 1960-1, has three lettermen back, each around the 5-10; or 5-11 mark in height. Winneconne has its entire starting unit back from a team that was 6-7 in conference play last year.

Shiocton will defend its championship with only three lettermen. Coach John Bowers lost five starters and nine of the first 12 men on a team that compiled a 20-4 mark.

A rundown on each team: BEAR CREEK — Frank McClone, who has been connected with athletics at Bear Creek for the last 15 years, will take over as head coach from Bill McIntyre, who is in service.

Four lettermen will return from a team that compiled a 2-16 mark last year. They are Mike McClone (6-0), Mike Prunty (5-11), Dick Lehman (5-11), and Frank Klegin (5-11). Jayvee graduates and squadmen that are expected to help are Brian Down (6-0), Gerald Page (5-11), Harold Klegin (5-7), and Walter Hanson (5-11).

DENMARK—The six lettermen are Darrell Lemmons (5-9), Dan Wockos (5-11), Darwin Rabideaux (5-11), Mike Schlies (5-10), Leon Rasmussen (6-0) and Larson. A pair of sophomores — Allen Valentine (6-12) and Dick Hanson (5-10), and two juniors, Jim Romberger (6-1) and Glenn Kornely (6-1), are expected to play supporting roles.

FREEDOM—LeRoy Fieck, Jim Brockman, Jerry Stadler, and Dick Peters for the four lettermen back for 1961-62 at Freedom. The Irish had an 8-12 overall record last year. Others that will help are Dave Krahn, Jim Lemke, Vance Garvey, Ted Bodoh, and Tony Skendore, all juniors. Coach John Van Egeren will be leaving for Fort Lewis for a tour of Army-duty Dec. 2. His place will be taken by Clarence Colombe.

HILBERT—Four lettermen have returned to coach Ted Burns. They are Allen Pruess (5-10), Neil Ott (5-9), Gerald Baer (6-3), and Larry Pruess (5-9).

Burns reports he has two promising sophomores in Jerry Thiel (6-3) and Bob Stecker (5-9). Two juniors that are expected to help are Mike Weinreis (5-10) and Roger Schneider (5-9).

HORTONVILLE — The Polar Bears have three lettermen back but will lack height as their tallest man is 6-1. John Quinn, who has taken over for John Amburgy, reports that several JV team graduates will help. The lettermen are Rick Anderson (5-11), Wayne Winters (5-11) and Bob Spaulding (5-10).

The jayvee graduates are Dick Higgs (6-1), Jim Dorn (5-11), Doug Meyer (6-0), Dick Plunker (5-9), Emery Rynders (5-11) and Bill Becker (5-10). Dave McHugh (5-7), a transfer from Xavier, is also on the team as is Merlin Keller (5-9), who was out last year with rheumatic fever.

OMRO — The seven monogram winners are Tom Beck (5-9), Jerry Miller (5-8), Dale Edminster (5-7), Doug Kintopf (6-12), Elwyn Anderson (6-0), Dick Enli (6-0) and Eugene Allen (6-1).

Coach Harry Harloonian, a Lawrence College graduate, reports that juniors Bob Olkiewicz (5-7), Bobby Lee (5-9), and Gary Treleven (5-11) are looking good.

REEDSVILLE — Coach Ron Akin reports he will have five lettermen back this year in Glen Braun (5-10), Dick Diener (6-1), Allan Kath (6-0), Ray Lippnow (5-8), and Eugene Klann (6-2).

The biggest loss was Don Mertz, a 6-1 center and the leading rebounder on the team.

Akin believes that Denver Lau, a 6-2 junior, Randy Krueger, a 6-foot sophomore, and Mike Miller, 6-1 junior, can provide some support for the lettermen.

New Members of State Hall of Fame Praised by Commissioner of Big Ten

BY DAVE O'HARA
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four men who were enshrined in the Wisconsin Athletic Hall of Fame today with praise that Football League's all-star team in 1931 and 1932, although he was considered "too spinly to play football in high school." Blood will be 38 Nov. 27.

Commissioner William R. Reed of the Big Ten capped the 10th anniversary Hall of Fame dinner Thursday night by saluting the induction of four new members. —Johnny McNally, alias Blood; Milwaukee, starting as a boy Frank Parker, Rolie Williams shagging balls for other tennis players. He went on to win the "National boys" title in 1931 and 1932, although he was considered "too spinly to play football in high school." Blood will be 38 Nov. 27.

Reed said that he had no quarrel with pleas for upgrading of classroom curriculum. But, he added, there are no grounds for statements that "pole vaulters and line buckers do not contribute to our social order."

Teaches A Spirit
"Athletic sport — the game at the University of Wisconsin teaches a spirit as vital as the anti-missile missile," Reed said, in emphasizing that sports represent a character builder in physical, mental and moral fitness. Blood, a native of New Richland, Minn., who changed his name temporarily from McNally to play tennis, said that he had no quarrel with pleas for upgrading of classroom curriculum. But, he added, there are no grounds for statements that "pole vaulters and line buckers do not contribute to our social order."

Saxton Averaging 9.1 Yards Per Carry for Unbeaten Longhorns

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The na- mighty Ohio Slate 7-7. After that tion's No. 1 college football team, Texas, meets its No. 1 nemesis, the Frogs ran into trouble, losing to Arkansas, Texas Tech, Baylor, Texas Christian, here Saturday, and UCLA. A victory over Texas before an expected crowd of 45,000.

Rainy weather is in prospect at least for Friday night. Despite some notable upsets scored in the past by TCU over Texas, the Longhorns are favored by up to three touchdowns in this Southwest Conference classic.

The two big reasons for this are the fact that Texas has yet to be extended in eight games this year, and the presence in the Texas backfield of Jimmy Saxton, a skinny 164-pounder who has car- ried the ball 78 times for the AAL, led both teams with 26 average of 9.1.

A victory will put Texas into the Cotton Bowl as host team. Al Harke scored 26 points for the Unbeaten Texas won't forget winners, and Dick Verkuilen aded 19. Phil Condu and Charlie List were high for the Police, with 11 and 10 points, respective- ly.

City Dwellers Can Survive

BY PROF. WILLARD F. LIBBY

Big cities probably are prime targets of nuclear attack.

Any city could be hit, with an aiming error of perhaps only a few miles in placing a rocket warhead in the heart of a metropolis.

The aiming errors, defense actions such as interceptor missiles, and other variables could keep the center of a city from being hit, with a suburb taking the full brunt. This is unpredictable.

With proper defense, most city dwellers and workers could be saved. Our cities are vulnerable right now because shamefully little has been done. City dwellers should be demanding action quickly, and taking individual steps to protect themselves.

Some cities have designated public shelters in basements or other areas of large public and office buildings, or factories. But a few if any are yet stocked with necessary provisions to sit out the period of intense fallout.

Indeed, surveys to locate the best shelter areas are still being planned, rather than long ago accomplished.

Much Can be Done

A few firms or companies have taken the initiative, and shown what is possible. For example, one company with 3,500 employees has prepared shelters in its buildings and stocked them at a cost of about $3.50 per employee.

At the University of California at Los Angeles, in two days we mapped the campus for basement areas capable of accommodating about 25,000 persons, enough room for the students and faculty and personnel.

Food $1

We estimate we can stock it with all necessary supplies, including a basic powdered multi-purpose food which needs only addition of water, for $1 per person.

Many city buildings, factories and apartments have basement areas which could be quickly prepared to care for residents, workers and visitors.

Apartment dwellers, on their own or with aid of the landlord, can set up fallout shelters within their buildings.

Subways offer huge shelter areas for many thousands of persons, particularly in New York.

Storm drains, and any tunnels, are other possibilities.

Some countries, notably Sweden and Denmark, have been developing efficient fallout and anti-blast protection shelters for some time.

In Sweden, H-bomb shelters are required in the center of every city over 50,000 population, according to reports to the House Committee on Government Operations.

In Denmark, some underground garages are prepared as shelter areas.

Evacuation No Answer

City residents in many blocks could band together to build and supply buried community shelters, such as were described in the previous article.

Would tall buildings and skyscrapers come tumbling down, perhaps trapping people in basements? Yes, under a direct hit, or possibly for some distances beyond.

But reinforced concrete buildings such as these are strong and many could withstand blast effects. In Hiroshima a concrete building directly underneath the A-bomb withstood the blast and was essentially intact, while frame buildings were blown down over great distances.

For fallout protection alone, tall buildings offer excellent protection in middle floors, and interior areas or corridors. There, the radiation from fallout would be blocked by the concrete structures above and below.

Traffic Jams

Evacuating a big city is not the answer, unless there was advance warning of a couple of days. Colossal traffic jams otherwise could lead to serious problems or loss of life.

Planning for apartment dwellers has lagged as badly as planning and preparation of shelters in schools. Tenants could take the lead in insisting on shelter provision, and might even contribute toward community shelters.

The 506 E. Spring St. was found guilty of punishing Mrs. Robert Heller, 25, 506 E. Spring St., during an argument between Mrs. Heller and Mrs. Sommers.

Mrs. Heller testified she had protection due to distance and in-reprimanded the Sommers daughter for bringing a stray dog near walls or roof. Staying there for 48 hours, who was afraid of hours could reduce the exposure somewhat but such shelter is

She said she and Mrs. Sommers argued and in the course of the argument Sommers stepped out of his door, which is adjacent to the Heller's door, and stuck his fist through the screen, striking Mrs. Heller. The two offices or public buildings might families lived in separate apartments in the building.

MONDAY: Fire hazards.

Judge Parnell To Have Role in National Meeting

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell will travel to New Orleans and Austin, Tex. this month to take part in meetings and a panel discussion relating to problems and techniques of trial judges.

Nov. 25 Judge Parnell will attend a meeting of the executive committee and officers of the National Conference of State Trial Judges. The meeting will be at New Orleans. Judge Parnell is second vice president of the organization.

He will be at the University of Texas law school at Austin Nov. 29 to Dec. 2 to speak at a conference and take part in a panel discussion of judge-jury relationships.

The conference is being sponsored by the joint committee for the administration of justice created by the American Bar Association.

At Austin, Judge Parnell will present his address to juries at the opening of his circuit court calendar and he will speak on establishing a good relationship between the judge and juries.

In the panel discussion, he will speak on statement of the case to the jury and determining any jurors' prejudice or special interest in cases.

To Aid Plamann School

Retardation Council Launches First Drive

The Outagamie County Council for Retarded Children, Inc., will open its first county-wide house to house fund-raising drive Saturday. Proceeds will go chiefly to the Robert Plamann School for Retarded Children, now under construction, and also to the nursery class sponsored by the group.

Civic groups and individuals will distribute envelopes in Outagamie County towns Saturday. These will be passed around blocks in residential areas for contributions, and will be picked up Nov. 25.

Plamann School

Investment of previous contributions to the Plamann School fund has returned more than has been spent on fund-raising activities, pointed out Gilbert J. Maurer, the publicity chairman for the Council drive.

The Plamann School is being built by the Outagamie County

Citizens for Retarded Children, Inc. It will be given to the county when it is finished in July, 1962, completely built and furnished, and will be in operation in September, 1962.

Joseph Van Nuland, Kimberly, and Richard Davidson, Appleton, are co-chairmen for the drive. Civic groups and individuals helping with distribution of envelopes are American Legion Post 554.

Don't Buy Machines Until Needed, Ald. Stillings Says

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings says she thinks a good way to keep the city budgets down is by not buying expensive, new machinery until it is needed.

She said that on April 5 the council approved a $17,000 accounting machine for the city clerk's office. It was delivered some weeks later, but never has been used, she said.

During Hearing "Maybe there are some items in the 1962 budget that will never be used for a long time and these should be deleted," she commented.

Mrs. Stillings made her statements during a public hearing

Bear Creek: American Legion Auxiliary Unit 512, Shiocton; Leo Collar, Hortonville; American Legion Auxiliary, Kimberly; American Legion Auxiliary, Kaukauna; Mrs. Jacob Bons, Combined Locks; Veterans of Foreign Wars, Freedom; American Legion, Little Chute; American Legion Auxiliary, Black Creek; the Commerce of Businessmen, Seymour; and Appleton Junior Women's Club and the Outagamie County Council for Retarded Children, Appleton.

The final meeting to turn in envelopes will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 27 at the courthouse annex.

The fund-raising drive by the Council will become an annual affair.

on next year's budget, and received the applause of the more than 100 taxpayers in the audience.

The new accounting machine Mrs. Stillings referred to has been standing in the former city treasurer's office, since it arrived, covered with a plastic sheet.

Carpenters, plasterers and electricians have been working in the old treasurer's office, converting it into a machine room. Some bookkeeping machines, an addressograph, a mimeograph and coin counter for the parking meter department will be put in the room.
